

XIII EMIŁA

INTERNATIONAL SUMMER SCHOOL

URGENTLANDSCAPES

activity

The 2021 EMIŁA Summer School will focus on urgency.

What is urgent today, more than a year since the pandemic ground the entire world to a halt? In March 2020, we suddenly had to learn about social distancing, hygiene and how to protect ourselves from COVID-19. We were hit by panic, pain, illness, and death. However, while taking refuge in our homes, we noticed nature suddenly flourishing, and discovered the wonders of new communication media. We learned to appreciate basic things such as a meal, a walk, and fresh air, not to mention the importance of family and friends. The pandemic made us --and is still making us-- reconsider our values and options. What about landscape?

Have any urgent landscapes emerged during the pandemic? Please let us know. The results of this survey will form a database for the 2021 EMIŁA international summer workshop, and will be exhibited at the Landscape Biennial as a participatory action by all of you.
